STANDARDS RECOGNITION ENTITY (SRE) FACT SHEET

WHAT IS AN INDUSTRY-RECOGNIZED APPRENTICESHIP PROGRAM (IRAP)?

IRAPs are high-quality apprenticeship programs that provide individuals with opportunities to obtain workplace-relevant knowledge and progressively advancing skills. IRAPs include a paid-work component and an educational component and result in an industry-recognized credential. An IRAP is developed or delivered by entities such as trade and industry groups, corporations, non-profit organizations, educational institutions, unions, and joint labor-management organizations. The final rule establishes a process for the Department of Labor’s Office of Apprenticeship (OA) Administrator (Administrator) to recognize qualified third-party entities, known as Standards Recognition Entities (SREs), which will, in turn, evaluate and recognize IRAPs consistent with the Department’s standards.

WHAT IS A STANDARDS RECOGNITION ENTITY?

An SRE is a third-party entity, recognized by the Department as qualified to recognize apprenticeship programs as IRAPs. The types of entities that can become SREs include, but are not limited to:

- Trade, industry, and employer groups or associations;
- Companies and other corporate entities;
- Educational institutions, such as universities or community colleges;
- State and local government agencies or entities;
- Non-profit organizations;
- Unions;
- Joint labor-management organizations;
- Certification and accreditation bodies or entities for a profession or industry; or
- A consortium or partnership of entities such as those above.

WHAT ARE THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF AN SRE?

SREs are responsible for recognizing and overseeing IRAPs in accordance with the final rule. This means:

- SREs are responsible for recognizing or rejecting IRAPs in a timely manner.
- SREs must notify the Office of Apprenticeship within 30 days when they have recognized, derecognized an IRAP, and include the name and contact information for the program.
- SREs are responsible for providing program and performance data to the Office of Apprenticeship in a timely manner.
- SREs are responsible for only recognizing high-quality IRAPs as set forth by the Department in § 29.22(a)(4), which describes minimum safety, pay, and training requirements for IRAP apprentices.
- SREs must establish policies and procedures for recognizing, and validating compliance of, programs that ensure that SRE decisions are impartial, consistent, and based on objective and merit-based criteria.
- SREs will review programs and validate that each program meets the high-quality criteria of an IRAP (as set forth by the Department in § 29.22(a)(4)) at initial recognition and on an annual basis.
- SREs must remain in an ongoing quality-control relationship with the IRAPs they have recognized, to include periodic compliance reviews and consideration of apprentices’ credential attainment, program completion, retention rates, SREs must publicly disclose the credential(s) that apprentices will earn during their participation in, or upon completion of, an IRAP.
- SREs are responsible for developing policies and procedures for the suspension or derecognition of IRAPs that fail to comply with the SRE’s requirements.
- SREs are responsible for developing policies and procedures that require IRAPs’ adherence to applicable
Federal, State, and local laws pertaining to EEO and reflect comprehensive outreach strategies to reach diverse populations.

- SREs are responsible for having policies and procedures for addressing complaints filed against their IRAPs.
- An SRE must notify the Administrator and must provide all related material information if:
  - It makes any major change that could affect the operations of the program, such as involvement in lawsuits that materially affect the SRE, changes in legal status, or any other change that materially affects the SRE’s ability to function in its recognition capacity; or
  - It seeks to recognize apprenticeship programs in additional industries, occupational areas, or geographical areas.

WHAT ARE THE CRITERIA TO BECOME AN SRE?

SREs are trusted workforce development leaders in their industry. An entity is qualified to be recognized as an SRE if it demonstrates the following:

- SREs must have the expertise to set competency-based standards, through a consensus-based process involving industry experts, for the requisite training, structure, and curricula for apprenticeship programs in the industry(ies) or occupational area(s) in which they seek to be an SRE.
- SREs must have the capacity and quality assurance processes and procedures to ensure IRAPs comply with § 29.22(a)(4), which details the DOL standards for safety, compensation, and quality with which IRAPs must comply.
- SREs must have the resources to operate as an SRE for a 5-year period.
- SREs must demonstrate impartiality by disclosing partners who will be engaged in recognition activities, describing their roles, including their relationships with subsidiaries.
- SREs must be in good standing with the U.S. Federal Government. They cannot be suspended or debarred from doing business with the federal government.
- SREs must have policies, processes, procedures, or structures in place to mitigate any conflicts of interest.
- SREs must have the appropriate industry and occupational expertise and resources in place to recognize IRAPs in their selected geographical area (nationwide or limited to a region, State, or local area).
- SREs cannot recognize IRAPs that seek to train apprentices to perform construction activities, as described in § 29.30 of the regulation.

HOW DO YOU BECOME AN SRE?

Those interested in becoming an SRE must apply to DOL for recognition.

- Organizations will be able to submit their applications online after the Final Rule goes into effect on May 11, 2020.
- Before the rule goes into effect, entities will be able to consult with and receive technical assistance from DOL about how to prepare their applications and can begin putting together an application so that it is ready to submit as soon the rule is effective.
